

Colin is a remote freelancer currently based in New Zealand. He designs motion video content for a diverse range of clients from start-ups to established design studios and ad agencies. He creates content from the idea generation stage through to project completion but is also happy to animate signed-off frames. He works in a range of screen ratios, from 9:16, 16:9, and 1:1 through to ultra-wide stadium format. Colin is a minimalist at heart but loves to add a bit of zang when possible. He studied motion design at the University of Arts London and is passionate about sports and the great outdoors.
